

'A Killer View' is a unique murder mystery event.

The event has been created by cluedup unique events and is exclusive to Situated 25 minutes from Wellington and nestled into the natural surroundings, Boomrock Lodge is a warm and inviting venue with a roaring fire, wonderful food and killer views...

In this event, you will be invited to solve the murder that has taken place at Boomrock Lodge.

The event begins on your journey up to Boomrock. The vehicle/s taking you to the Lodge will be halted on a deserted country road by Detective Rob 'Papa' Nooey – a slightly muddling yet committed rural Detective.

Detective Nooey will advise you that there has been an 'incident' up at the lodge. He goes onto explain that out here in the country he lacks the support of colleagues and will ask your team if they might assist him in solving the crime....after all, the suspects are all being held at Boomrock and the more minds on the job the better!

When you arrive at the Boomrock, the first thing you will notice is the crime scene. The area is cordoned off, the crime tent is in place over the body and key pieces of evidence lie in-situ.

During Part 1 of the event, you will be invited to informally interview and gain more information from the key suspects in this chilling murder. The Landscape Gardener, the Junior Farm Hand, the Paua Poacher and the Farm Chemical Salesman all have a genuine motive for wanting Sandy Johanson dead and but there alibi seems as solid as Boomrock itself. Is there a hole in their story?

In Part 2 Detective Nooey will bring the suspects into the room one at a time and begin his interviewing of the suspects. Teams will be invited to contribute questions to this process. At the same time, you will be able to re-visit the crime scene and the evidence table, looking for key pieces of information which will help to implicate the killer!

In Part 3 all four suspects are brought into the room to face questions from the teams. Having all the suspects in the room together is high risk detective work and a potentially volatile situation – but out here in the country they do things differently and maybe this approach will pay off?

Teams must piece together all they have seen and all they have heard and decide who the killer or killers were.

A Killer View ends with each team presenting their case to Detective Nooey and the key suspects....and then, perhaps the truth will really come out?
